WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

NEWS FROM COUNTIES JUST ACROSS THE RIVER IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Sheriff S. J. Crum and J. S. Billups, his deputy, are settling with the various Boards of Education of the county this week.

Word has reached us of a sensational affair which has thrown Williamson into a tumult of excitement and as the result of which Pierce Maynard and Herbert Runyon have been dropped from the police force and in addition must answer charges of attempted criminal assault.

Lawrence Riddle, one of Logan county's best known school teachers, was drowned on Harts creek last Saturday while bathing in a mill pond.

Mr. Riddle had never learned to swim and he walked into the pond beyond his depth and was drowned before he could be rescued by his companions.

The many friends of Miss Annie Walker, daughter of Rev. P. G. Walker of Barboursville, will be glad to learn that she has returned from the Huntington General Hospital where she underwent a very difficult operation for the removal of an abdominal tumor weighing 15 pounds.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—Fruit experts who have completed a tour of the fruit growing section of the eastern panhandle of the state, declare the crop this year will be the greatest in the history of the famous fruit growing country. At the lowest calculation, it is said there will be 1,000,000 baskets harvested and sent to the market.

There will not be so many tons and baskets of early peaches, but big crop will begin to come in the latter part of August. With this 1,000,000 basket crop the growers will reap a rich harvest.

With the largest apple crop to follow, the fruit industry of the eastern panhandle should be close $1,500,000.

The action of the Norfolk and Western in spending an immense sum of money in putting an arch in the Dingess tunnel from end to end, dissipates the theory not long since expressed that the old Twelve Pole valley line would be abandoned.

For almost a year contractors have been busy on this work, and thousands of tons of brick and concrete have been consumed in the work.

With the exception of a moderate quantity of local freight and passenger traffic the old line is now used for the purpose of carrying empties back to the coal fields, after having taken their tonnage of coal and coke to the markets in the northwest.

Owing to the heavy grades and sharp curves which abound on the Twelve Pole line, all heavy freight trains and all through passenger trains are run over the Big Sandy line.

There is still a good quantity of timber on the head waters of Twelve Pole, and plenty of good coal. It is believed however, that if there were neither of these commodities in evidence the road would be preserved for the double track purposes it so well serves.

Recently the Manufacturers' Record reported the incorporation of the Day-Poehontas Coal Co. at Welch, W. Va. the capital stock being $500,000. This company has organized and the following officers have been elected: President, Walter L. Taylor; vice-president, R. E. Wood, both of the R. E. Wood Lumber Co., Baltimore; secretary and treasurer, J. Albert Hughes, vice-president of the Third National Bank of Baltimore. Mr. Taylor states that the company has purchased 3400 acres of McDowell county and containing the Poehontas smokeless coal, and decided on immediate developments. It is planned to have a daily output of 1000 tons of coal and increase to 3000 tons in the future. About $125,000 will be the initial investment for the installation of mining machinery, the erection of tipplers, the construction of an electric plant to furnish power and light, the building of miners' dwellings, etc. No contracts have been awarded, and proposals will not be considered until a superintendent has been engaged, as this officer will be in charge of purchases. The company's main offices are in the First National Bank Building, Welch, and its Baltimore offices are at 609 Continental Trust Building.

NOTES OF THE FARM.

COLUMN OF INTERESTING NEWS THAT WILL BENEFIT FARMERS.

There is no line of farm business that pays better than that of the dairy. Yet it must be run right. Slipshod methods do not go so well in these days of inspection. It is now quite common for boards of health to send out from the city and inspect dairies for many miles in the country.

Some experience is also necessary in order to get best results from a dairy. No one should expect to make a fortune the first year. It will be necessary to correct some mistakes that necessarily will be made. The best art of feeding will have to be acquired gradually. You can come to know your cows only by degrees.

It may take years to reach your ideal in building up a herd. If you do the right sort of work, you will always be getting better and better results. Many little points of improvement can be picked up only by slow experience.

To succeed best one must love his work. Hired help is all right, but close personal attention is also necessary. No one can care for details better than the owner. The work must all be unified under the eye of the master.

The side line of breeding is very important. If properly conducted it may become the most profitable feature. One of our East Tennessee dairymen recently footed up $15,000 from annual sales day.

Cottage Cheese.

It sometimes pays to make up your skim milk into cottage cheese. A little buttermilk and cream added will enhance its value. There is a demand for this home-made cheese nearly everywhere, and it usually sells at about 10 cents a pound.

This cheese is made only as a by-product and can be carried by the milkman on his daily rounds, or it may be sold from the general market wagon with other farm articles. It is often known as Dutch cheese or schmiekase. It is rich in proteids and makes a nourishing table food.

Clean Milk.

It is surprising to know how long clean milk will keep sweet. During the Paris Exposition of 1900 was shipped from Illinois and sold sweet at the exposition, seventeen days afterward, while milk from the suburbs of Paris soured the day it was produced. The difference was a matter of cleanliness and exclusion of bacteria from the Illinois milk. No chemicals were used or any pasteurization, but, of course, the milk was carried in a refrigerator. The great milk problem is to obtain perfect cleanliness, and intelligent customers are willing to pay for it when they know they have it.

Dairy Thoughts.

Cream separators ought to be in general use. They are now so good that they get practically every bit of cream out of the milk.

Other things equal, separator cream is of first quality and always churns easily. It makes the best of butter, which always sells easily.

Cows should come fresh at different times all through the year. It is better to have one calf at a time rather than a great lot at once.

To hold a good tract, your butter supply should be regular through the whole year. This is much better than to have an abundance at one time and none at all at another.

Be Neat.

Everyone who has anything to do with a dairy should acquire the habit of neatness. It should be practiced in feeding the cows, in milking them, in caring for the stable, in caring for the milk, in making butter, in selling dairy products and in every other detail of the business.

This habit of neatness must not be considered simply a matter of necessity. It must be a part of your life. You must be neat because it is right and because you want to. To see any lack of neatness in others connected with your dairy work should shock your sense of propriety and prepare the way for its elimination.

When customers know you are neat it enhances the value of your dairy products. They are glad to give a better price for butter that they know is absolutely clean. To be cleanly in person and have a clean outfit in every detail will always tell great in your favor. Nobody with any taste will think of buying butter regularly from any one who exhibits filthy habits, but with a neat person it is always a pleasure to deal.

Feeding Skim Milk to Calves.

A correspondent at Weimar, Tex., wants information about feeding skimmed milk to calves and the best way to raise them on it.

The calf learns to drink its milk better if taken from its mother within twenty-four hours after birth, though some persons allow it to suck until the cow's milk gets normal. Feed the mother's milk while warm three or four times a day from one week to a month. If the milk is very rich, dilute it with warm water.

After ten days the milk may be lightly skimmed and the skimming increased till at the end of a month a skim-milk diet is reached. As far as possible feed the milk warm. It should be taken directly from the separator, if you use one. If not, warm the milk and keep this up for a long period.

The quantity of milk fed must depend upon the individuality of the calf. Overfeeding is worse than scant diet. Be regular in feeding. Keep feeding vessel clean by frequent scalding. The calf should be kept dry and warm and allowed to exercise in pure air. Teach it early to eat sweet hay and a little grain. Do not put it on grass soon. Some dairymen prefer fall calves to spring calves. To make a good cow, the calf should be well nourished and carefully attended to.

Love Your Cows.

You say sentiment and kindness have no place in business, but they do. The man that hates his work and beats his cows can't do any good. Yesterday I was told of a man who cursed his job and is continually losing his place to work. His mind is at cross purposes with the world and everything around him. The consequence is that his family is often on the verge of starvation.

It is the same way with the dairyman. If he succeeds, he must be in harmony with his work. If it does not suit him he would better sell out and go at something else. But there is no reason why it should not suit him if he is rightly disposed toward it. I have a neighbor who is making $1,500 clear every year out of a small dairy. At the same time his farm is getting rich preparing the way for other great profits.

Yes, a man should love his cows. He should have a real affection for them. This will cause him to give them good food to eat and treat them kindly. They in turn will give more good milk. It is a well known fact that if you beat a cow and excite her and make her angry it injures the quality of the milk. There is no place in the dairy business for such conduct.

Dairy Notes.

Many farmers contend for a general purpose cow. In the first place, she must give plenty of milk and butter. Then she must bring good calves to make more milkers and also big steers for beef. At last she must make good beef herself.

The price of cows is ranging high in Northern States. High grades sell at sight for $100. Registered cows sell at $125 to $250. Three-months-old heifer calves sell for $50 and up. Two-year-old heifers in calf sell at $75 to $150. Unborn calves often bring $25 for the chance of them.

The value of a pure-bred bull is often underrated. If you want to make a success of your dairy, get a first-class, pure-bred bull and keep him, and don't change your breed. Keep to one line and on the up-grade always.

Your dairy barn should exactly meet the demands of your herd. Build it for use and not for show. It should contain ample store room for food, sufficient stalls for the cows and a room for milk and necessary vessels.

Good cheese can be made only from absolutely pure milk. To keep milk sweet is not enough. Every sort of taint and bacterial infection must be kept out of it. Milk is very susceptible to odors and contamination of all kinds.

Foul air coming from a dead carcass has been known to taint a cow's milk. It entered the blood by way of the lungs and was carried to every part of the system, then made its exit with the milk as it was secreted in the udder.

M. C. Kirk and sons, Russel and Holmes, are spending the week in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Dr. Fairchild and daughter, Miss Lorna, have returned from a few weeks' visit with friends and relatives at Paintsville.

don't more people in Martin county subscribe for the Big Sandy News? It is the best edited, cleanest, newest paper of its kind in the state, and it is the only medium through which you get the local county news.

The city duds give as a reason for filling the mud holes in the streets with saw dust that the wood alcohol in the dust will destroy the bacteria. They are hauling their dust from a hickory mill. There might be alcohol in hickory, but we are from Missouri.

News has reached here that C. B. Weddington, of Borderland, W. Va., was knocked down and robbed at Nolan, W. Va. Thursday night. Mr. Weddington is a former pupil of the Wilson Memorial Academy at this place, and his many friends at Inez are sorry to learn of his misfortune.

Rev. John Stephens was ordained a deacon in the United Baptist church Saturday night.

Rev. Gideon Williams, of near Louisa, preached two fine sermons in the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday.

Died at his home on Lynu Bark, eight miles Southeast of here, Friday night, Jeremiah Meadows. Uncle Jerry, as he was familiarly called, was among the best citizens in the county, and strongly connected throughout the valley. He was buried Tuesday in the family burying ground.

We heard at least twenty people asking to borrow the News last week. This is hardly fair, but we have been guilty ourselves, and pose who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

A. G. Hinkle, our boy preacher, preached an excellent sermon Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church. While Mr. Hinkle is a beardless boy, his sermons show eloquence, learning, pathos and logic combined. Inez is proud of this self made product, and the Presbyterian church should thank for the valuable accession to their ministerial force.

E. B. Kirk, the efficient teacher at Warfield, has been busy during the week exterminating the fleas from his school room. He hopes to be ready to open school by the first of August.

Died, Tuesday at 6:30 o'clock, Miss Eda Delong, the 18 year old daughter of William P. Delong, a merchant at Delong, 12 miles South of town. The sudden death of this accomplished young girl has shocked the entire community. She attended the Inez graded school last year, and had perfected arrangements for 1910-11. Young as she was during her stay at Inez she was a social favorite, and loved and admired by all who knew her because of her strong, personal character and sweet, sunny disposition. Why one so young, healthy and promising should be so suddenly called from among us is one of the unsolved mysteries.

We have been asked by many of the leading citizens of the town to express their thanks to the Big Sandy News for publishing the article concerning the County High School. Garfield Collins, son of Rev. Marion Collins, accused of detaining a woman, waived examination till the Circuit Court which convenes the last Monday in November.

Three years ago we had 31 evergreen Sunday schools in the county. Now we only have five with four of them in Inez. Such conditions should not be.

One of the nicest affairs that has ever occurred in town occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Richmond Saturday night. Those present were Hester Newberry, Ella Hinkle, Daisy Richmond Maud Newberry, Grace Marrs, Annie Harris, and John Webb, Grover Richmond and E. B. Kirk. Edenite.

The world's most successful medicine for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has relieved more pain and suffering, and saved more lives than any other medicine in use. Invaluable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.

A WAIL FROM THE WEST.

Warning Frankly Sound by a Big Sandian in State of Montana.

Plains, Mont., July 14, 1910. — Friends and relatives of Lawrence county, Kentucky, through the columns of the Big Sandy News I will write you. On Sunday morning March 13, we pulled across the Rocky Mountains once more. At eight o'clock in the evening we arrived at Plains, Mont. a town of one thousand inhabitants. Here we located as this is the gateway to the Flathead Indian Reservation.

Now, I will state a few facts concerning this new country you have heard so much talk of. First, I shall say it is over estimated. It is true the soil is fine, but they have not the rainfall and climate to grow vegetation as it is grown in the East. So far as irrigation is concerned it is only a money hunt. Nine-tenths that buy it don't get it, but they have to pay for it just the same, so when a man pays his taxes and his irrigation he has but little left. It is worse than a railroad tax. This country is on a great boom, but I am not going to boom it to Eastern friends and relatives, who, without Western experience, would break themselves up and with it are liable to. Our Western lesson has cost us 16 years of hard labor, and to tell you we will make it all right, I can't do it, but I can tell you I see one of the hardest parts of our life just before us. We are making every effort possible to meet it well. If we make it all right or all wrong, our pocket book will be as flat as if a thirteen hundred pound horse's big foot was on it. I will say to the young man a trip to the West would be one of the grandest lessons of your life, it might save you hundreds of dollars in later years. I will say to you that have families, don't cross the Mississippi. I will say to those who are on the Western slope of life, you have no need of this country, you are not physically able to stand the hardships that await the homeseeker. Stay where you are, stick to your post, is my advice. Folks you have a grand country, but you don't know it. You have good markets for your fruit and vegetables, but you don't know it. Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Paul can't be beat. Men live 15 miles from railroad here and market at Billings, 500 miles, and North Dakota 1400 miles. Think of that distance.

All you need is more pluck and push. Get up and go. Why Eastern people do better in the West is because they are put under a boss to work like the negroes were. I always thought I worked hard, but I never had the first lesson in hard work till this summer. One morning I knew I was a little late, so anxious to be at my post at the proper time I forgot to eat one bite of bread for breakfast. If the men in the East would get stirred up that way in pursuit of that dollar there would not only be a few rich ones, but many. You have many advantages they have not get here. I don't know when I will be back it may be a year and half or it may be five, but I can tell you I am coming home to live again. I have mixed and mingled with almost every nationality represented. I am not ashamed of my birthplace. I am glad I am a full blooded Kentuckian. I will say to you I shall live and die in possession of Kentucky soil, wishing you all success, good bye.

A LETTER FROM MONTANA.

Plains, Mont., July 12, 1910.—I have been wondering if my Big Sandy friends would not take the pains to read a short letter from a member of their circle now in the "Wild West."

Most of my acquaintances in old Lawrence know my mission to Montana. I was lucky enough to draw a number in the drawing for lands in the Flathead Indian Reservation. I was to show up in May or might lose my right, so I preferred to "show up." And now the law requires that I reside on it twelve months and then I can obtain title to it. So you see I am in a way tied up for the present, but I think the price of the tie up is sufficient to warrant my staying, so here I am.

As to the ranch, as it is called out here, I hold 160 acres of level land, it can plowed any way you wish, and there is no bushes or stumps or sprouts or anything to interfere with the plow, except on, say sixty acres, there is a heavy coat of grass sod and the power to break this will necessarily have to be rather heavy. The soil is mostly black, although some of the upper side is more gray. But I am told that this is just as valuable as any of the 160. There is about forty acres of this gray soil. I have a well, found water at a depth of 10 feet, cold as Kentucky ice.

There are lots of Indians here, and from their regalia you could not tell men and women apart. They wear gay colors alike, even the breeds wear the red and green around their necks. Full bloods of both sex wear long hair platted with red flannel tied on ends of plats and covering the hair about one-third its length. Broad hats, and around their waist is tied a garment resembling a blanket and extends down about the knees or perhaps a little below and is of the most gorgeous colors. Moccasins made of buck skins serve them as shoes. They are surely a peculiar set of fellows. Peculiarities in everything. When they buy anything to eat and it is delivered in glass, tin or anything that will endure the weather, they empty it, and hang the receptacle in a bush and let it stay there. If there are no bushes they use the fence for this purpose. When you are riding or driving on the road and are about to meet an Indian he leaves the road soon as he sees you coming and often by the time he is opposite you he is fifty yards from the road, and still at full gallop. You never see them walking. You never see the little ones around the wigwam playing. Even on the hottest days, the door is closed and all seem to be away, but if you "peck on the door" you will find them at home. They are very clever and gentle to the settlers. Conversing and laughing freely, and ask almost every time for a match to light their pipe or cigarette. I am not able to make even an intelligent guess as to how many Indians are still on the reservation. But they are not scattered over the prairie. They have allotments of 80 acres each and had the selection before the opening of whites. So they have the lands near the timber, for here they can get wood and water, and it seems that that is all they want. I have never yet seen an "Indian Garden." They simply never plow the ground, and would prefer to carry water two miles than dig ten feet. So with no flowers planted, no garden growing and no out buildings, an Indian home looks like a deserted Kentucky cabin. But you should not think they are all without means. I know one, "Swift," that has two thousand head of cattle from two to four years old. I know of others, "Bull Head" keeps from two to three thousand head and often has one thousand horses. "Big Crain" is another rich Indian.

There is plenty of game here, and fish to a finish. I was going by Dog Lake the other day and saw two Indians getting off their ponies and run; before I got up to where they were and had left the ponies they were back to the road with a fine fawn, looked to be a week old. It is a violation to do this, but they run their chances, and the chances are that nothing will ever be said. I have myself seen two cubs, and a fellow saw two grown deer the other day and killed one and I saw the hide fresh taken from the carcass. I think I have seen two thousand wild ducks, and I saw one bunch of about one hundred sea gulls. I went fishing once when I first came out here and caught in one hour about fifteen pounds of fine trout, the finest fish that ever went on a table.

There are several people in this country, but they are not scattered over the country as in Kentucky. There will be a little town, and then perhaps not another hut for 20 miles right on the railroad, too. Plains is a town of one thousand and it is fifteen miles to my ranch and after leaving town for three miles you enter a pine forest and never see but one hut on the whole way.

This is a fine country in many ways. The moral sentiment, however, is not what it might be. For instance, you have to refer to the calendar to know when Sunday comes. I saw an old soldier on Sunday planting potatoes. I saw two carpenters building a house right in town on Sunday. Stores, saloons all open seven days in the week. Men take their wives—some men—and visit houses on a back street, and stop at the saloon and take a glass of beer as they go back to the children. "Match Ball" is the Sunday game, and nearly everybody attend. Dancing is a great sport and even the best girls attend. You know that Jeffries and Johnson fought at Reno, Nevada. So that will show you that this wild west is not what we hope it will be along moral lines.

But this is just one feature. There are some good moral people and they are fighting hard for a reform. But suppose you want to make a bit of money. Wages for common labor is $2.00 and board per day and other labor in proportion. Carpenters employed constantly at $4.00 and smiths get $5.00 for shoeing a team and other things alike in price. Few doctors and lawyers and they charge just any price they want. The fellow can pay it all right, for if he has cattle to sell he gets the highest price and they have cost him practically nothing. If he has one acre of onions he is good for $500, and potatoes are worth on an average $200 per acre. Butter is now 35c per pound and eggs 30c per doz. If you want good water go to the pump and get ice water. If the day is hot the night is cool and you will enjoy a blanket and, Oh, how you can sleep. Health is fine, climate almost perfect, except a lack of rain for crops. Where the ground can be irrigated, the crops are simply beyond reason.

I read all the letters in the News with much interest, and wishing all the contributors to be persistent in giving items. I am Sincerely,

In Bad Fix

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga. "I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings."

"I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui."

"Since taking Cardui, I am so much better and can do all my housework."

Take CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

Do not allow yourself to get into a bad fix. You might get in so bad you would find it hard to get out.

Better take Cardui while there is time, while you are still in moderately good health, just to conserve your strength and keep you in tip top condition.

In this way your troubles, whatever they are, will gradually grow smaller instead of larger—you will be on the up-grade instead of the down—and by and bye you will arrive at the north pole of perfect health.

We are authorized to announce
MORDECAI WILLIAMS,
of Boyd county, as a candidate for Congress, Ninth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
W. J. FIELDS,
of Carter county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party of the Ninth District.

I desire to announce myself as a candidate for the Democratic Nomination for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District. I was a candidate for the nomination before the convention two years ago which nominated James N. Kehoe, and following that convention, it was almost unanimously conceded that I was the logical candidate and entitled to the nomination at the hands of my party this year. I have always been a zealous party worker, and if nominated, will conduct an energetic campaign for election and if elected will devote all my time, energies and talent to the office and diligently work for the interests of the people of my District.

I respectfully solicit support for this nomination.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because it's for One Thing Only, and Louisa People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills is one thing only. They cure sick kidneys.

They cure backache, every kidney ill. Here is Louisa evidence to prove it.

Mrs. Lizzie Skaggs, Lock Ave., Louisa, Ky., says: "I have never heard of a case where Doan's Kidney Pills have not lived up to representations. A cold which settled on my kidneys caused an attack of rheumatism and I also suffered from rheumatic pains through the lower part of my back. My kidneys and bladder became inflamed and the kidney secretions were scanty. There was a dropsical swelling in my limbs and I always felt tired, weak and nervous. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me entire freedom from these annoying symptoms of kidney complaint. I have been convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills will help anyone suffering from kidney trouble." (Statement given January 28, 1908.)

On June 21, 1909, Mrs. Skaggs was interviewed and she said: "I gladly confirm the testimonial I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills a year and half ago. I have had no return of kidney complaint since this remedy cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Suicide in Pike County.

Pikeville, Ky., July 20.—A. L. Hobbs, an employee of the Baldman Lumber Company, residing on Chio creek, in Pike county committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat with a pocket knife after having first cut the throat of his wife until it is evident that he thought she would die. Domestic troubles caused the rash act.

NOTICE TO TRUSTEES.

Notices have been sent to about fifty school districts this week where elections are to be held. With the notices I have sent nominating petitions and certificates of eligibility, which it is the duty of each trustee to furnish the candidates, and see that they are properly filled out, and returned to the County Clerk, at least 10 days before the School election, which will be held on Saturday, Aug. 6th, 1910.

It is very important that elections be held in each district, where the present trustee's term expires, and the responsibility of holding the election, in a large measure, is with the present trustee. All the notices for holding the election will be sent to him, and it is his duty to post them immediately, and to be at the voting place with the ballot box, promptly at the time for holding said election, and if the officers appointed to hold the election, for any cause, are not there on time, others should be elected to take their places, from the voters present.

The election officers must furnish the successful candidate with a certificate of election, and he must be qualified, and have his certificate of qualification on file in this office not later than 10 days after the election, at which time he assumes the duties of the office, the old trustee retiring. The law compels me to meet with each Division Board within 30 days after the election, to organize the Board, by electing new officers etc., and each newly elected trustee must qualify previous to this meeting, and be present, or the Division Board will elect a man to take his place.

I am very anxious to meet with all the trustees at this meeting.

No one is eligible to hold the office of trustee, who is either a Federal, State, Municipal or County officer, or any of their Deputies.

A failure of the sub-district trustee to post notices, or in anywise to neglect his duties in holding school election, will subject him to indictment, and he will be reported to the grand jury.

Any trustee calling at my office will be furnished with a copy of the new school law, and a trustee's record book.

JAY O'DANIEL

Supt. Schools Lawrence county.

Appeal for Hogs.

To the Trustees of the Town of Louisa:

We do hope you will take a thought of the poor people of Louisa before you put the hogs out of the town. Poor people can hardly live as it is, and they want a pig in a pen to eat up their slop and for their children to live on. You have put up the cows so they can not keep a cow, can not get pasture in a mile of town, can not get milk for their starving children, cannot get butter, and what they do get costs two prices. You have driven hundreds of poor from your town, and are keeping out good people by your ordinances. Think of poor people before you act. Think of your wife and children and don't listen to every crank in town. You have taxed and do tax the people to the extent of the law, and still in some parts of the town mud holes and water stands until it stinks and mosquitoes are numerous and no walk for that part of town. Other streets are worked every year. A Taxpayer.

Alex. Lackey Returning.

After an absence of several years Alex. Lackey will return to Louisa next week. He expects to leave California on the 24th of this month and will arrive home a few days later. He went to the Golden West to regain his health, and it is said he has about 200 pounds of it. Alex. must be careful while here lest the feast of good things which awaits him does not do him up.

The Wrong Man Again.

The report received just before the News went to press last week announcing the arrest of a man in West Virginia thought to be Ben Blankenship, failed to be verified. Lindsay Waller, father of the murdered boy, went to Charleston to see the man and found that he was not Blankenship.

Has Returned to Oklahoma.

ENTERED THE TEACHINGS OF BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

MOUNT TABOR'S PARABOLIC VISION.

Matthew 17:1-8; 14-20—July 24.

"This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him."

SIX days after our Lord's words concluding our last study, he took Peter, James and John, three of his favorites among the disciples, into a high mountain. There he was transfigured before them; that is to say, his appearance changed, his face shone like the sun, his garments were white like the light. Then the vision grew and Moses and Elijah appeared to be holding conversation with the transfigured Jesus. The impulse of St. Peter, anxious to serve, inquired whether or not it was the Master's will that they build three tabernacles; one for him, one for Moses and one for Elijah, on the top of the mountain. One of the evangelists says, "He knew not what he said." Another account shows that the three disciples were for a time overwhelmed by something like drowsiness but later became fully awake.

It was on this occasion that they heard a voice from the heavens, saying, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him." It required our Lord's kind words and touch to relieve the Apostles of their fright, and looking up they saw no one but Jesus. His transfiguration had vanished, and it was the Master, just as before. At that moment, they thought that Jesus had entered into glory, they now perceived that they were mistaken. Another account tells us that as they were coming down the mountain side Jesus charged them that they should not tell the vision to any one until after his resurrection from the dead. He thus explained to them that the whole matter was a vision, an apparition. This was a fulfillment of what he had told them in his last words of our lesson of a week ago, "There be some standing here which shall not taste of death till they see the Son of man coming in his Kingdom." These three disciples had been standing in his presence at the time those words were uttered, and now they had seen the Son of man in his Kingdom glory—a vision. The reality of that vision has not yet come to pass, although it is surely nigh, even at the door.

St. Peter himself declares that they accepted the vision as a corroboration of our Lord's assurance of his coming Kingdom. In his Epistle he says, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eye witnesses of his majesty [his kingdom], when we were with him in the holy mount." (II Peter 1:16, 18). Yet the Apostle proceeds to tell us that this vision, helpful as it was at the time, became secondary as he came to a better understanding of the prophecy which more particularly describes our Lord's second coming and Kingdom. He says, "We have a more sure word of prophecy [a more sure evidence than the vision] to which we do well to take heed as unto a lamp that shines in a dark place until the day dawn—until the Millennial morning dawn—II Peter 1:19.

Before leaving the story of the transfiguration, which symbolized our Lord's Kingdom glory, we note his gracious words to the afflicted disciples, "Arise, and be not afraid." On several occasions he thus addressed them. It would appear that by nature many of us have a consciousness of our own imperfections and a realization of our unworthiness of Divine favor; and fears are likely to grasp us and torture us. This is because we do not know our heavenly Father. The more we learn of him the more does the love of God cast out fear from our hearts, and assure us that he who created us is sympathetic towards all who are striving for righteousness. He is a great God, not a little one. True, he will not give his greatest blessings to any except those who come into harmony with him, but, on the other hand, he is not a demon that he should be feared as such. He takes no pleasure in the suffering of his creatures and will not permit that any should suffer eternally, therefore his provision that all shall have, through Christ, an opportunity for regaining perfection and eternal life, and that whosoever will not avail himself of this great privilege must die the second death—must be annihilated.

While Jesus and the three favored Apostles were in the mount of transfiguration, supposed to have been Mount Tabor, at the foot of the mountain there was a man whose son was a lunatic, whom he had brought that the Lord might expel the demon. The Apostles had already been out, as the Lord's representatives, in various parts of the country of Palestine, curing the sick and expelling demons in his name; so they assayed to cast out this demon but could not. The Revised Version speaks of the sufferer as an epileptic. Indeed, all higher criticism disputes that there is such a thing as obsession by evil spirits. It is a common saying today among the Higher Critics that what our Lord and the Apostles mistook for demon possession was merely insanity, epilepsy, etc. Of course the word demon is broad enough to cover any kind of ailment, whether it be a direct affection from the Adversary, or an indirect one through heredity. In either case there is loss of ease, disease, discomfort. We, however, have more confidence in the wisdom of the Lord and his chosen Apostles and mouthpieces than we have in all the Doctors of theology and Doctors of medicine in the whole earth. We therefore accept this narrative just as it reads, that Jesus rebuked the "devil" and cast him out of the boy, who was cured from that very hour.

The disciples who had been unsuccessful in casting out this demon, called the Master away from the hearing of the multitude and asked him why they had failed when they attempted to cast out the demon. He replied, "Because of your little faith." Another account says that he stated, "This kind cometh not out except by fasting and prayer." In other words, the lesson to the Apostles was that their greatest power would result from their living very near to God, living lives of self-denial and prayer. Of course, fasting to be seen of men is not here incited, nor do we suggest that the works of penance on the part of disciples would make them more efficient in the understanding of the Lord's mystery; rather the thought is, the nearer one lives to God the more of the Divine power may be exercised by and through him.

It is perhaps difficult for us to understand our Lord's reference to their having little faith, for they surely exercised considerable faith in making an attempt to cast out the demon. Faith, to be successful, must be backed by spiritual power; and our Lord assures us that even with a small amount of faith we would be able to remove a mountain and nothing would be impossible. We are not to suppose that our Lord meant that his followers should try to remove mountains as a diversion, nor as a proof of their faith, for by so doing they would be seriously interfering with the interests of others who would be more inconvenienced by having the mountain remain. This they would have no right to do. We assume therefore that the thought must be that if in the fulfillment of the Divine command it should be necessary to have a mountain removed, and if the commission had been given to one of the Lord's followers to remove the mountain, and if he could exercise the faith to obey the command, the result would correspond to the faith exercised. All that the majority of us could do would be to exercise as much faith as possible and ask the Lord for more, and also seek to cultivate a greater degree of faith.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

Success.

There is but one way out of poverty for the generality of mankind, and that is downright hard work, economy and self-denial. Young man draw your coat, roll up your sleeves and wade in. This everlastingly waiting for something to turn up—waiting to step into dead men's shoes, will terminate your career as a mere groveling, dependent, subsisting and only existing and filling space without a real or single purpose in life. Wake up! Stir around and send the life blood coursing through your veins. Hold up your head, clean your face, put on a smile and cast that woe-begone look in the rubbish by the wayside, where it belongs. Move forward, clear the track, and the grandest opportunities of life will open up, which you want to seize with a tenacious grip, and they will unfold to you all hidden treasures you ever imagined or conceived. Young man, this is no imagination.

ve drawing, a delusive sketch, a fantasy, and if you possess enough grit and stamina you can make it a picture true to life; thousands have done it, and you have an equal footing today. Few rich men owe their possessions to accident; few great men owe their distinction to luck and chance. Thus far greater number have won by perseverance, push and pluck, diligent in business, spending less than their earnings mounting obstacles, overcoming difficulties, with a will invincible.

Imitators.

There are three kinds of workers, and only three, in this world. They are the pullers-down, the builders-up, and the imitators. The first are the most successful, the second are the most self-sacrificing, but the last are the most numerous. They make no beaten tracks, for they take their feet up and put them carefully down in the exact steps of their predecessors. They will not go where others have not been. Ghosts of the dead and the specters of greatness are always before them. Authority is a god whom they worship with devout superstition. They say their prayers with awe stricken regularity before the shine of antiquated error and time-honored falsehoods. The king of men and gods is "He said so."

It would kill them like a dose of arsenic to take a little originality. In their logic, it must be right, "follows from the premise," "It has long been believed," History is argument, fashion authority, and the grand work of life is to please the world. In walk and carriage, dress and table, in reading and praying and at last in dying and being buried, they seriously follow what others have done. They are happy in service and joy in slavery. It is a melancholy fact that most teachers are imitators. They come in flocks from normal schools, in great numbers from institutes and in thousands from our educational meetings. They are anxious enquirers after others' doings, and willingly follow any educated goat that boldly leads the way, always with note book in hand asking, "Do tell me exactly how you teach?"

What to do With Mother.

And the question in many a group has been, although not plainly stated: "What shall we do with the mothers, anyhow. They are so far behind the times." Permit us to suggest that if the mother had given more time to looking after you she would have been as fully up to date as you in music, in style of gait, in aesthetic taste and in all sorts of information. We expect that while you were studying botany and chemistry and embroidering and the new opera she was studying household economics. But one day, from overwork, or sitting up of nights with a neighbor's sick child, or a blast of the east wind, on which pneumonia are horsed, mother is sick. Yet the family think she will soon be well, for she has been sick so often and always has gotten well and the physician comes three times a day, and there is a consultation of the doctors and the news is gradually broken that recovery is impossible, given in the words, "While there is life there is hope." And the white pillow over which are strewn the locks a little tinted with snow becomes the point around which all the family gather, some kneeling, and the pulse beats the last throbs, and the bosom trembles with the last breath, and the question is asked in a whisper all over the group, "Is she gone?" And all is over.

Maternal Supervision.

Now comes the regrets. Now the daughter reviews her former criticism of maternal supervision. For the first time she realizes what it is to have a mother and what it is to lose a mother. Tell us, men and women, young and old, do any of us appreciate how much motherer was to us until she was gone? Young woman, you will probably never have a more disinterested friend than your mother. When she says anything is unsafe or imprudent, you had better believe it is unsafe and imprudent.

Every man, every woman, every child has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it is gradually increased, improves and becomes native to the character. As we neglect it it dwindles, withers, and disappears. This is the stern but benign law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels and virtue into goodness.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foamy discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

A Wild Blizzard Ragging

brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of Winter and Spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-grinding cough. When grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, its supreme. 50c. $1.00. Guaranteed by A. ## Great Exposition Being Planned for Southland

Resources of the Appalachian Mountain Region to Be Displayed to World.

A great exposition, to exploit the resources of the Appalachian mountain region, included in the states of Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, will be held in Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 12 to Oct. 12, next. The movement has been organized purely in the interest of letting the outside world know what is included in these mountains. The possibilities for developing untold wealth are seemingly unlimited. It is with a view to attracting the attention of the people of these Appalachian states, as well as of the entire nation, to these opportunities and possibilities that this exposition is to be held. In addition to the commercial and industrial sides, however, there will be many amusement features, and the historic grandeur of the Appalachian territory will be told in panoramas, tableaux, spectacles and by other means that will prove highly interesting and entertaining. The whole plan will be to arouse a new interest in the Appalachian territory, and bring the people of the Appalachian states closer together. That the exposition will be a success is already assured, and more than 300,000 visitors are expected during the four weeks it continues.

Horses, Mules and Cattle Are Raised

Appalachian Mountain Region Affords Abundant Opportunities.

The Appalachian region is unequalled in America as a home for breeding establishments. The winters are not too rigorous and summer's heat is tempered by breezes wafted from mountain ranges and foothills into the fertile valleys lying between. Cattle from this region are shipped to Baltimore and exported, commanding highest prices in European centers. The Tennessee mule is second to none, not even the Missouri or Kentucky mule. Not so large as the Missouri animal, the Tennessee product combines all the good qualities of the would-be rivals and excels them in durability, stamina and as a beast of burden for all-around general purposes.

Mountain ranges in profusion make the Appalachian the ideal section for sheep raising—a most profitable and much neglected industry.

While Kentucky is the home of the thoroughbred, and justly proud of her reputation, the pacing steed marvels of the grand circuit are the evolution of the old "side-wheeler" pacer used by devout circuit riders before the civil war in going from church to church in the mountains and valleys of the Appalachian country. The "Patch" and "Gentry" families of noted racers are the perfected descendants of those ambling mountain limbers, and there's nothing lacking but the investment of capital by experienced men in various lines of stock raising to make this the Mecca of animal industry, now but in its infancy.

Farmers at last are beginning to see their opportunities and are taking up the breeding of thoroughbred stock. It costs but little more, and the returns are invitingly larger. In nearly every county seat during the fall race meetings and fairs are held, and large attendance attests the growing of the interest.

A more inviting region for the breeder of the thoroughbred and the standard bred horse is not to be found, while, agriculturally, the fertile valleys are a veritable paradise. The possibilities of this region, not only as adapted to stock raising, agriculture and mining, but to all other proposed avenues of industry, will be fully set out at the Appalachian Exposition, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., September 12 to October 12, next. This will be the greatest exposition the south has ever known.

Rich In Mineral Wealth That Awaits Developing.

Valuable Coal, Iron, Marble, Zinc, Lead and Other Resources Will Be Exhibited in Appalachian Exposition.

One of the richest regions in the entire country is the Appalachian chain of mountains, in which vast deposits of coal, iron, lead, zinc, gold, silver and other minerals of value are to be found. The fruits of these mountains will be displayed to advantage at the Appalachian Exposition, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., September 12 to October 12, next. The minerals exhibit will be housed in an appropriate building, and it will be one of the prides of the exposition to give the world at large a glimpse of what is to be found in this region, which includes part of eight southern states. It will be but another lesson to men of the north and east and west, as to the great natural wealth of the south. This display should be seen.

Preserving Pencil Marks. If the paper on which there is black-lead pencil writing is brushed over with a thin coating of white egg, or varnish, the pencil marks will be preserved from liability to defacement.

Honored by Women

When a woman speaks of her silent secret suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing-power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering sex from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

Property Destroyed in Morgan.

Lightning destroyed the store and contents belonging to Jere Murphy, at Murphy postoffice in Morgan county, Monday morning. The store was about 100 yards from his dwelling, but people at Axel, a mile away, discovered the fire and informed of it before he was awakened. His stock amounted to about $5,000, and the only thing he saved was a barrel of sugar. He had no insurance, and, therefore, sustains a total loss.

WEBBVILLE.

The marriage of Miss Glendora Woods and Mr. Alfred S. Doty was solemnized at home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Woods Wednesday evening, June 29th. Rev. T. Dlack, of the Presbyterian church of Grayson, was the officiating minister. Only relatives and a few friends of bride and groom were present.

The house was elaborately decorated with plants and flowers, the colors pink and white being carried out. In the drawing room the scene of the ceremony, there was an arch of ferns, daisies and carnations, the windows and doors were draped with ferns and daisies, the lights were pink and white wax candles in the single crystal glass candlesticks, while in the porches and lawn were hung Japanese lanterns which shed a soft mellow light. The porch was thrown into a reception room, where the guests were received by Mrs. W. K. Woods and daughter, Mrs. Gardner.

At 7:30 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Maybelle Peay, the wedding party entered the room, Misses Hazel Fischer and Belva Green in front and Miss Celia Pettit and Mr. O. P. Doty, Jr., next followed by the bride and groom. The bride was dressed in a handsome cream brocaded satin over white taffeta, trimmed in imported lace. She carried a shower's bouquet of white bride's roses. Miss Pettit, maid of honor, wore a beautiful white allover embroidered batiste dress, white sash white shoes and gloves and carried a bouquet of flush pink carnations. Misses Fischer and Greene, other bride's maids, wore beautiful white lingerie dresses, white shoes and gloves, pink sashes, and carried pink and white carnations. The groom and best man wore black.

After the ceremony the bridal party marched to the dining room followed by the guests. The bridal party was seated at one table, the oldest members of the families at the next table, and the younger guests at the other table. A delightful five course dinner was served, the dining room was draped in pink and white with a green back ground. After the dinner was served, the bride and groom hurried to don their traveling suits, the bride's being tan, the groom's grey. The whole bridal party went to the special train which was waiting to carry them to E. K. Junction, where they boarded a C. & O. train amid showers of rice and best wishes, on their honeymoon trip. They will be at home in Detroit, Mich., after July 10th.
